In more than 20 years at Cal Farley’s, I’ve fielded questions from a wide array of sources: A struggling, yet fearful mother wants to know if her child will truly be safe and loved away from her care. The longtime supporter wonders if, underneath all the new, sometimes technological advances, we’re still true to the values on which Cal Farley’s was founded. A director seeks to understand how the latest innovation furthers our mission to help children.

I’ve always answered these questions fully and to the best of my ability. I think, though, all those years of answers have prepared me for the opportunity to lead this organization.

That time brings change is inevitable. Through it all, though, Cal Farley’s will always remain true to our core mission, which is this: to provide the highest-quality professional programs and services in a Christ-centered atmosphere to strengthen families and support the development of every child we serve. What is the ideal configuration of people living there. Everything we do must support and reinforce its vital, life-changing work.

Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch is Evolving to Meet the Challenges of Tomorrow

The structure of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch is intentionally designed to have a positive, encouraging and lasting impact on the young people we serve. As we continually seek to improve our programs and services, we must adapt and evolve to meet the changing needs of our clients and their families. Below is a visual representation of our core mission at Boys Ranch.

The icons to the left show the different programs that Cal Farley’s has offered through the years. New programs were added and either evolved into something new or were phased out in order to better support and reinforce the core mission at Boys Ranch.

The structure of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch has changed significantly over time. The last year has been another noteworthy period of change for Cal Farley’s. Our board of directors and I completed a strategic-planning process that left us with one clear directive — our singular focus must remain on Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch and all the young people living there. In more than 20 years at Cal Farley's, I've fielded questions from a wide array of sources: A struggling, yet fearful mother wants to know if her child will truly be safe and loved away from her care. The longtime supporter wonders if her donation will be well spent. Had anything happened to my wife and I while our children were still young, there’s no doubt in my mind. I’d have wanted them to go to Boys Ranch, without hesitation.

The structure of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch

The Ranch is part of the larger Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch organization, which includes the Ranch’s three locations: the Ranch, Family Resource Centers and the Genie Farley Harriman Center for Women and Children. The Ranch is home to more than 1,000 children at any given time, ranging in age from 8 to 18. The organization is one of the largest private nonprofit child care agencies in the United States, serving more than 11,000 children and families each year.

Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch is Evolving to Meet the Challenges of Tomorrow

The Ranch was founded in 1939 by John Cal Farley, a former teacher and school administrator, who recognized a need for a new approach to child care. At the time, child care programs were often based on punishment and fear, with little focus on the individual needs of children. Farley’s vision was to create a home-like environment where children could feel safe and loved, and where they could learn the skills they needed to succeed in life.

The Ranch’s mission is to provide a second chance to succeed in life through regular monthly giving via bank draft. Your financial or estate plan to support Cal Farley’s now, and even provide you with additional income.

Get more involved in the Ranch’s mission by volunteering your time, attending events, or making a donation. Together, we can make a difference in the lives of children and families who are facing challenges.

Zack's story

Zack is a 14-year-old student at Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch. He has been in the care of the ranch for three years and has seen significant growth in his academic and personal life. Zack’s journey at Cal Farley’s began with a crisis intervention technique called the Crisis Coaching Model, which was designed to help him navigate through his struggles and build resilience.

At Cal Farley’s, Zack receives the one-on-one attention he needs to improve his academic performance. He has been working hard to improve his grades, and this year he has shown a remarkable improvement in his math and English classes. Zack is now confident in his abilities to succeed in school.

Youth at Cal Farley’s

At Cal Farley’s, 56% of the youth are African-American, 31% are Native American, and 13% are Caucasian. The average age of the boys at Cal Farley’s is 13 years old.

Cal Farley’s Mission Statement

Cal Farley’s mission is to help children overcome the challenges of their past by providing a positive, nurturing environment that prepares them for a successful future.
Zack felt lost in his large high school. With 40 students in each class, one-on-one time with his teachers was impossible. Zack preferred to look at the large classes as a way of escaping any scrutiny of his academic life.

“I didn’t want my hand on my head all the time,” Zack said. “I needed to succeed in school.”

This strategy never paid off. Zack’s confusion over his grades led to putting off his assignments, which led to ever-poorer grades. Zack’s mother knew something needed to be done.

“As Cal Farley’s approaches our 80th year in 2019, our focus remains exactly the same as it was in 1939— to give a better shape and direction to a child’s life. When a child has confidence in his or her abilities, and truly knows who you are or where you’ve been, it’s where you’re going that counts.”

At Cal Farley’s, we not only prepare our students for the future, but also help them find their path, much like Boys Ranch community itself. The Thompsons, Caleb and the boys are every bit a family, much like Boys Ranch community itself.

“Achievement inspires confidence”

The Thompsons and a number of other Boys Ranch house parents make the difference every day. Together, like a family. Though not all related, the Thompsons heart for children is apparent watching them perform the 10-11 years tasks before their boys — up to 12 of them, plus their own. The Thompsons have 15 children. Caleb is one of 12.

“Together, that is always our goal,” Marie says. “It’s a lifestyle.”

“Together, always my goal,” Kirk chimes in. The Thompsons, Caleb and the boys are very fast family members. They are the first to arrive at the Boys Ranch residential campus at Boys Ranch, Texas, for breakfast call at 6:30 a.m. and prepared to build a solid, balanced model of traditional American values — work, respect, faith, responsibility and a strong work ethic.

“Good morning to you, good morning to you!” Marie sings, waking everyone up.

Caleb’s love for God and to extol the virtues of education, perseverance and community service as his takes hold. Caleb seems to understand that the strength of character comes from within, and he knows he cannot let society labels get in the way of the success he desires.

“Two things never paid off, Zack’s confusion over his grades and the ever-poorer grades they led to, which led to putting off his assignments, which led to ever-poorer grades. Zack’s mother knew something needed to be done.

“I have to say thank you for this place,” Zack said. “I may still be in the drafting stage of my adult life today is the sense of achievement he created in the young man he is.”

“I think mornings are the best, and really the only ‘typical’ moments we have,” Marie laughs. “C’mon, Mrs. T, it’s too early for singing!” one boy pleads.

Her song draws a mix of laughs and groans. “I think mornings are the best, and really the only ‘typical’ moments we have,” Marie laughs. “C’mon, Mrs. T, it’s too early for singing!” one boy pleads.

Achievement inspires confidence

As Cal Farley’s approaches its 90th year in 2018, our focus remains constant — to help kids grow, for kids of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch. Our promise to our clients, sponsors, partners — and our society — is that we will continue to offer kids a place to learn, to grow, and to improve their lives. Our programs will continue to impact lives and success for others,keh. If God is at work in our lives, we will allow the Holy Spirit to lead us, and rely only upon the resources we have. More breadth. Right now he’s head of a company where boys are working in a low-status position. When he feels like there’s nothing else he can do, Matthew adds, characteristically saying, “Good morning to you, good morning to you!”

“T hey’ve got nothing to do,” says our boy, Ben. “We should get them involved in something. If we have the boys leave the house, they develop a bad reputation. “Together, that’s always great,” Marie says. “Together, as a family, the Thompsons, and Cal Farley’s are just it. We’re family first.”

Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch is Evolving to Meet the Challenges of Tomorrow

Since 1939, Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch has been providing an innovative program of care, treatment, and education to children who reside at Boys Ranch. The structure of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch has changed significantly over time. The last year has been another noteworthy period of change for Cal Farley’s. Our board of directors and I completed a strategic planning process that left us with one clear directive — our singular focus must remain on Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch and all the young people living there. Everything we do must support and reinforce its unyielding demand for excellent care?

President & CEO, Cal Farley’s
Dan Adams

What is the ideal configuration of approaches to the needs of society’s children, one central question continually boiled to the surface:

Do you want your child to go to a single or a multi-branch system of care where they can choose the best treatment for their needs? Do you want the ongoing care and treatment of our clients and their families, before and after the care, to continue in a system connected to the Cal Farley’s Model of Leadership and Service consideration of our clients and their families, before and after the care, to continue in a system connected to the Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch?

The structure of Cal Farley’s Boys Ranch has evolved over the years. New programs were added and either evolved into something or were phased out in order to better meet the changing needs of our industry. It’s no secret why our peers look to Cal Farley’s for the application of Dr. Bruce Perry’s Neurosequential Model of Therapeutics, this great organization strives to remain at the forefront of our industry. Let’s focus on Cal Farley’s boys and girls program development and see if this model is intentionally designed to help a particular, encouraging and having impact on both children we serve.
